INTRODUCTION

Since the launching of its webinars' series, Telecom Review has been able to address industry-specific topics in a very engaging format.

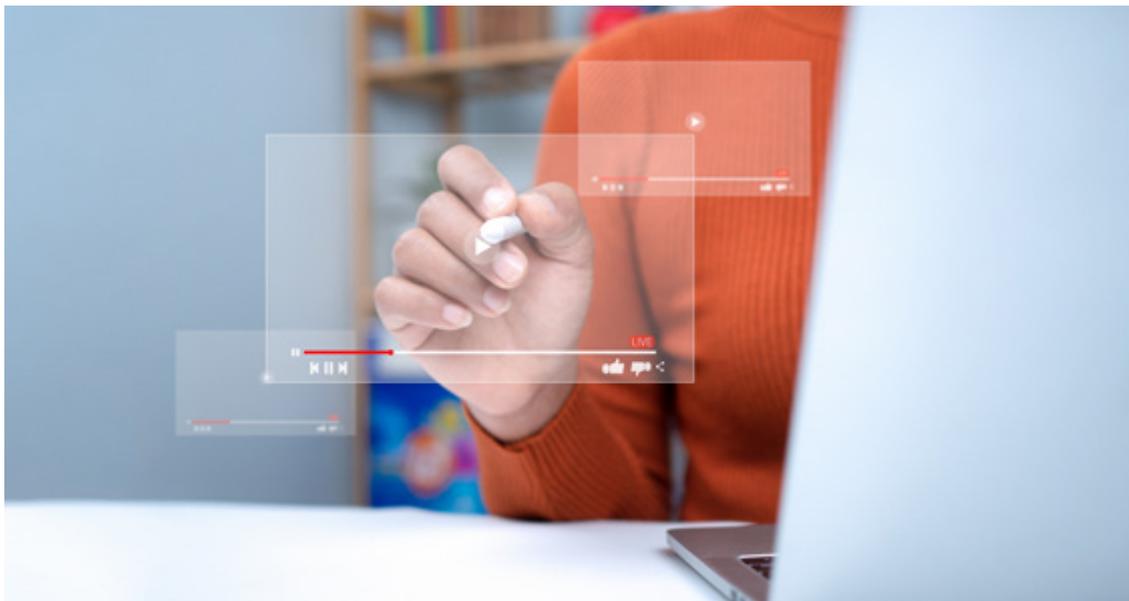

This year, our webinars will align with our regional editions, delivering niche-specific insights from experts at the forefront of their markets. Each session will be guided by specialized commentary tailored to the unique dynamics of key regions and industries.

WHAT'S AHEAD IN 2025?

Kicking off in Asia, we will explore how emerging technologies are fueling economic growth and transforming industries across the region. As we move to the Middle East, discussions will focus on the evolving impact of connectivity in shaping industries on a global scale. We will also highlight the rapid expansion of fintech and its role in advancing economic development in Africa. Finally, zeroing in on the Americas and beyond, we will examine the increasing demand for robust infrastructure, cloud and satellite solutions, and data centers, showcasing how the industry is scaling to meet the digital era's growing connectivity needs.

We remain committed to connecting key players—operators, vendors, ICT companies, governments, and consultants—and fostering high-caliber discussions between the world's top experts in telecom and digital transformation.

Our webinars embody Telecom Review Group's motto—Global. Regional. Digital.—and catalyze extensive discussions that bridge regional insights with global impact, while simultaneously offering a unique opportunity to showcase thought leadership, gain industry visibility, and engage directly with key decision-makers shaping the future of telecom and digital innovation.
